Louis Vuitton's much-anticipated Men's show took Paris by storm recently, with American rapper and music producer Pharrell Williams at the helm. Yet interior design and furniture lovers couldn't help but notice the stunning office armchair that Pharrell was perched on during an interview with JOOPITER about his 'Son of a Pharaoh' auction - the Mascheroni Airone 127, inside New York's historic Jacob&Co jewellery store furnished by Mascheroni.

But it's not just a pretty face - the Airone 127 is also incredibly comfortable and supportive. Each segment feels like an additional backrest, providing unparalleled relief to the discerning sitter. The Airone collection comes in a variety of styles including a swivel visitor's chair and a high-backed executive version, complete with headrest, tilt mechanism, height adjustment and casters.
